Roger Demers, Special Assistant Attorney General

The Elder Abuse Unit was established within the Department of Attorney General in the fall of 2005 and conducted its first full year of operation in 2006. The primary responsibility of the unit is investigative management and prosecution of crimes involving elderly victims of abuse, neglect and financial exploitation. The Unit consists of a prosecutor, Special Assistant Attorney General Roger Demers; an investigator, Martha Crippen; and a paralegal, Claudia Cardona.

The Unit was created in recognition of the fact that the proportion of Rhode Island's population that is sixty years and older will dramatically increase in the coming years. Coupled with the fact that this age group is the state's fastest growing demographic is that crimes against senior citizens often go unreported, presenting high temptation and low risk factors to potential offenders. The special needs often presented by elder victims, and the fact that elder abuse, neglect and exploitation crosses all racial, socio-economic, gender and geographic lines, made the need for a special unit apparent.

The Unit continued its mission of working with and advising various law enforcement agencies across the state in elder abuse investigations, leading to 65 criminal cases involving elder victims in Providence County alone. Over 50 additional investigations were handled exclusively by members of the Attorney General's Bring them back with SafetyNet™ by LoJack®.

Nothing could be more frightening than the thought of a loved one with autism, Alzheimer's or another condition becoming lost. That's why LoJack now offers SafetyNet™ to provide the most effective technology for finding and rescuing missing individuals with cognitive conditions.

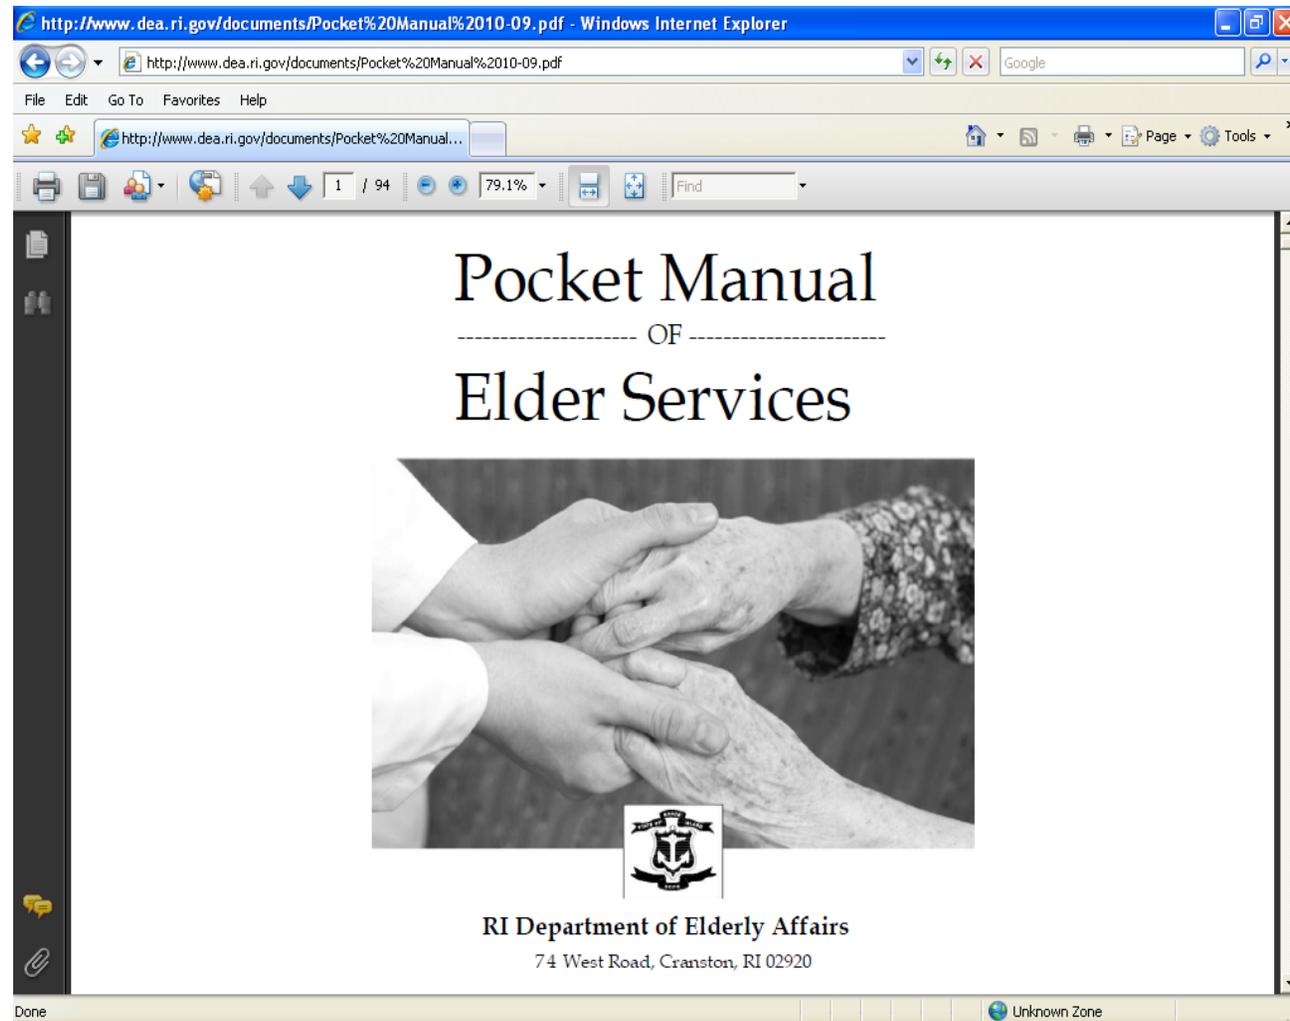

Upon enrollment in the SafetyNet™ Service, your loved one is outfitted with a SafetyNet Bracelet that may be worn on his or her wrist or ankle. Should your loved one go missing, local law enforcement and public safety agencies who are trained and certified on electronic search and rescue procedures will use digital LoJack Search and Rescue Receivers to track the Radio Frequency signal being emitted from the SafetyNet Bracelet on your loved one's wrist or ankle. Once your loved one is located, he or she can be rescued and returned to you.

By working directly with law enforcement and using the world's most successful recovery technology, SafetyNet offers the best chance of quickly rescuing lost loved ones and bringing them home safely.

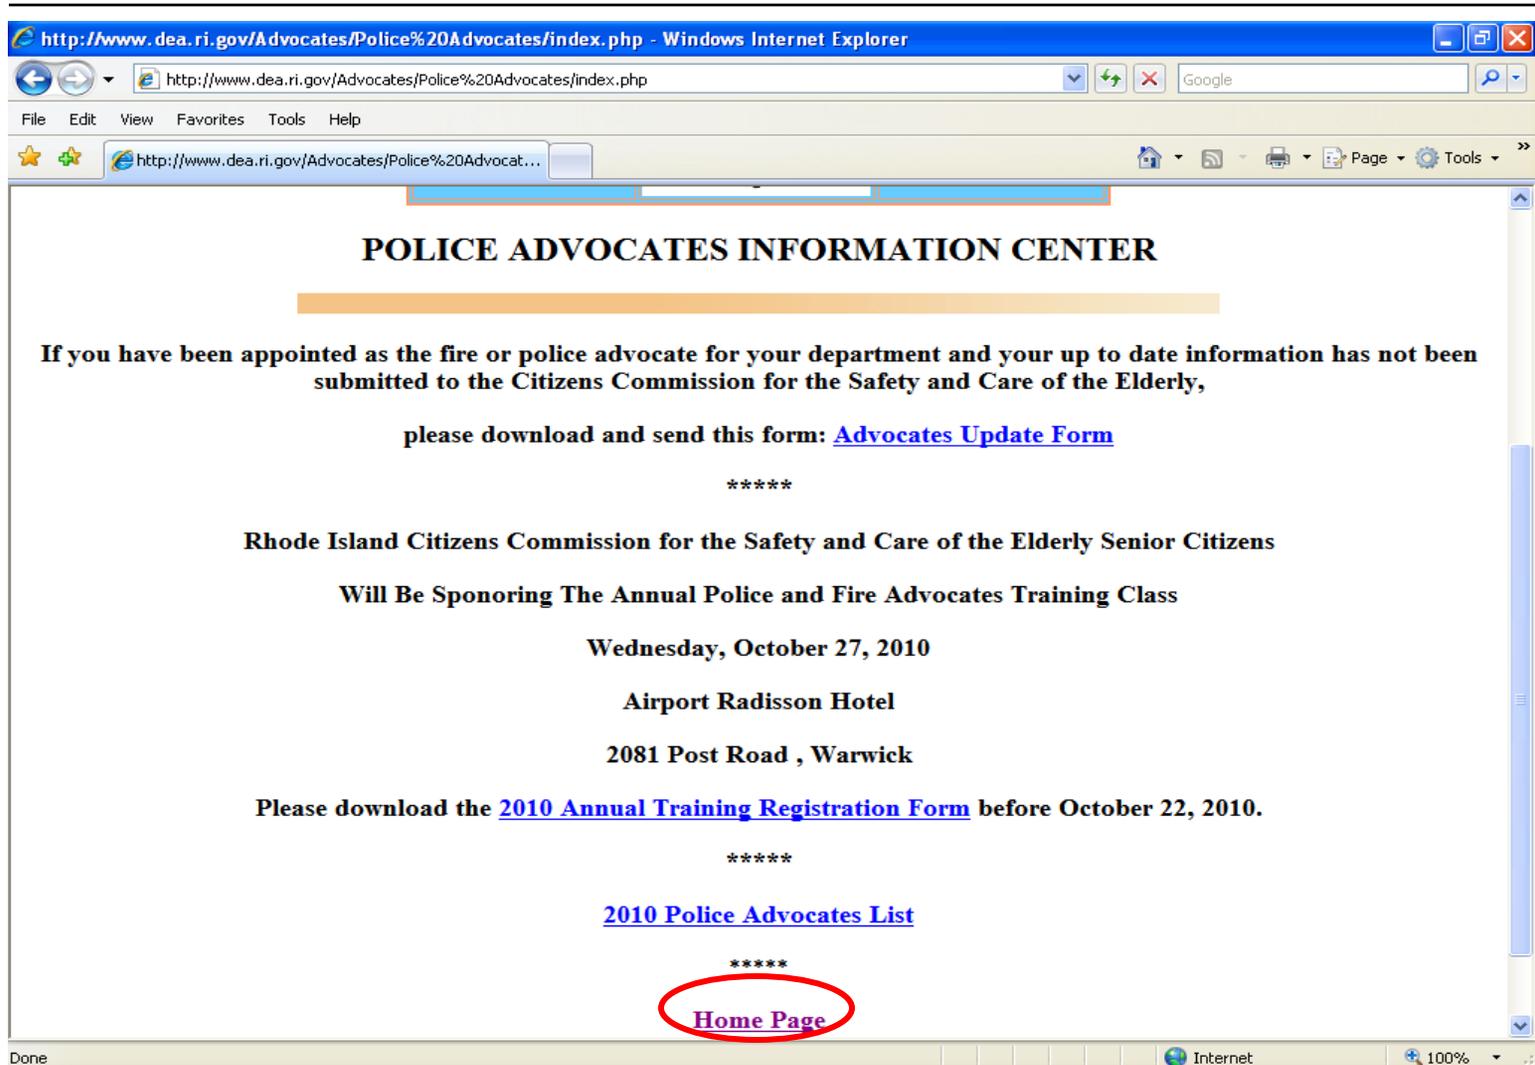

Caregivers, guardians, or family members click here for more information on the most effective technology for finding and rescuing a loved one who may wander and become lost.
